Earnest Bramah has captivated me for fifty years, with no end in sight. I swoon each time I read one of his tales, or as he puts it: "Kai Lung unrolling his mat", so that he can commence telling his tale.5 of 5 people found the following review helpful. Mirror of Kong HoBy OrinocoA delight of a book. Kong Ho is a naive (fictional) young chinaman whose interpretation of early twentieth century English life is an utterly delightful.

A lively and amusing collection of letters on western living written by Kong Ho, a Chinese gentleman. These addressed to his homeland, refer to the Westerners in London as barbarians and many of the aids to life in our society give Kong Ho endless food for thought. These are things such as the motor car and the piano; unknown in China at this time.

About the AuthorErnest Bramah (20 March 1868 ndash; 27 June 1942), born Ernest Brammah Smith, was an English author. He published 21 books and numerous short stories and features.
